

ROOSEVELT HAS MADE PROBLEM IN EGYPT HARD FOR ENGLAND.

Officials Will Not Discuss the Matter But Tendency is to Condemn the Irrepressible American.

COMMENTS OF THE NEWSPAPERS

Bell Seems General That the Colonel Did Not Observe Proper Course in Speaking So Plainly Where He Was a Guest.

United Press Telegram.
LONDON, June 1.—Theodore Roosevelt has stirred up a hornet's nest in England as a result of his remarks concerning the policy that country is following in Egypt. Government officials and cabinet members are convinced the speech will increase the difficulty in dealing with a delicate political subject both in England and Egypt.

Officialdom refuses to publicly comment on the speech because Colonel Roosevelt was appointed to the United States at King Edward's funeral.

A further upgrowth in Anglo-Egyptian relations is feared. Comments of the newspapers are almost without exception unfavorable to the Colonel. Here are some excerpts:

The Evening Star—“Mr. Roosevelt has long been accustomed to being adored plainly. He has lived so long in a perfect stowology that the temptation is irresistible to tell him that he has been guilty of a grave offence against the law, blinding host and guest. The fact that his predecessor was assassinated should have made him careful in commenting upon the assassination of Boutros Pasha.”

The Daily Graphic—“Even Socrates was poisoned for giving too much advice.”

The Manchester Guardian—“Mr. Roosevelt's statements are based on misleading evidence.” It further says his views are “muddled and boyish.”

The Evening Standard (Conservative)—After first referring to Roosevelt in friendly terms, this journal declares that “laying hands on King Edward's political subject seems at first glance a social crime little short of murder.”

The Globe treats the speech in a jocular vein and agrees with the Colonel. The London newspapers played up the story, editorially and in a news way, big. The Conservative press is more friendly than the Liberal and Radical organs. While agreeing with Roosevelt's views, the Conservatives doubt the propriety of their utterance.

The Chronicle considers the speech a compliment to Anglo-American solidarity and advises England to take no offense.

On the street, where the people are unrestricted in their utterances, it is declared generally that the Colonel exceeded the bounds of propriety and touched on a subject which was none of his business.

Whether they liked the speech or not made no difference to Mr. Roosevelt, who talked about it in his usual jovial mood today.

DERBY IS RUN

Lemberg, Ridden by Dillon, Wins English Racing Classic.

LONDON, June 1.—(Special)—A. Fairley's Lemberg, Dillon up, won the annual Derby stakes, the English racing classic. Vicount Vallois's Green buck, Tompionian up, was second, and A. P. Cuniffe's Charles O'Malley, J. Howard up, was third.

The crowd was larger than last year when King Edward's minor won. Colonel Roosevelt declined many invitations to attend the races, preferring to visit the National Gallery. He goes this evening to Worplesdon to visit Dr. G. Scobie, the noted hunter with the Colonel's African party.

SCAFFOLD COLLAPSE.

Edward Bach Killed and Two of Seven Hurt May Die.

BUTLER, Pa., June 1.—(Special)—Edward Bach, aged 29, plasterer of Erie, was killed and seven badly injured by the collapse of a scaffold in the Forge Steel Wheel plant at Lymond today.

The men fell 10 feet. They were erecting a new open hearth furnace. At least two of the injured may die.

Pot of Beans New Weapon to Attack Royalty

United Press Telegram.
BERLIN, June 1.—A zinc pot, filled with beans, was the “weapon of destruction” an insane Polish Jew hurled at Crown Prince Frederick William today. The Crown Prince was riding at the head of the Grenadier Guards following the annual spring review and was accompanied by King Albert of Belgium.

The pot hit a policeman but did not seriously injure him. The assailant was arrested.

UNIONTOWN, June 1.—A libel in divorce was filed this morning in behalf of Clara A. Fleisher of Connellsville. She seeks separation from Ray E. Fleisher, who now lives in Martinsville, Ind. Desertion is alleged. The two were married in Maryland Christmas Day, 1892.

Additional appeals from valuations of the Commissioners were filed this morning. E. C. Smith objects to the $3,000 valuation on 315 acres in Frank township; John Shanyefeller does not think $300 on 17 acres and $4,250 on 101 acres is just.

The polling place for the Second Ward, Connellsville, has been changed from the store room on Penn street to the store of Bertha Whaley on York street.

The equity suit of William M. Henderson against the Rocks Coal & Coke Company was dropped when it became known that the defendant company is no longer mining coal from the head in dispute. Henderson wanted an injunction to prevent encroachments upon his property.

Jacob D. Coffman was given letters of administration in the estate of the late John Coffman of German township. Bond in the sum of $14,000 was supplied with G. S. Harsh, F. H. Garwood and W. E. Crow as sureties.

United Press Telegram

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Attorney General Wickersham is sanguine over prospects for success of his suit to enjoin 25 Western railroads from putting into effect the rate increase. It was scheduled today but the Government's suit blocked it. In a statement Attorney General Wickersham said he was convinced Friday the proposed increases are “subversive to the public's interests” and began preparing the suit.

He sent Assistant Attorney General Groves west Sunday night. From his statement it appears he started the action before he heard the Omaha shippers committee Monday. As was observed then, Mr. Wickersham was jovial and smiled as he talked of the imminent task the shippers were imposing.

As a result the committee was bewildered and left the department wondering whether they hadn't arrived too late to enable bringing suit in Chicago or some other Western city on short notice.

The School Board will hold its last at which time the year's business will be wound up. The new Board organized next Monday and already dues are being laid for the election of officers. The only office over which there is a dispute is that of Treasurer.

It is just possible that things will not run according to schedule when the election of a Treasurer is taken up. F. C. Rose is the candidate of the present organization members and strenuous campaigning is being done in his behalf.

There is a sentiment against the present system of handling the school funds. Several present members of the Board, and not a few who will become members next Monday, are strongly opposed to electing a Treasurer and paying the $130 a year salary when the Board can realize considerable each year if interest is paid by the bank handling the money. It is known that the proposition will be made next Monday to advertise for bids from the local banks and the institution offering the best inducement will be given the money, providing these progressive can muster a sufficient number of votes.

There seems to be no opposition to President G. W. Gallagher and Secretary Bert J. Thomas. This has left the field clear for a lively race over the Treasurership.

Whether H. C. Norton can serve as Director is questioned. He has been appointed Tax Collector, although he has not qualified as yet. Mr. Norton stated today that one attorney says he can hold both offices while another learned limb of the law is of opinion that he must give up one or the other. If he does not qualify as Tax Collector before next Monday evening, Mr. Norton will take his seat as School Director.

THE EUZELIANS ARE WINNERS

Took Four Out of the Five Points from the Philos—The Orations, Debate

Presented.

Special to The Courier.
MT. PLEASANT, Pa., June 1.—Notwithstanding the inclement weather the Grand Opera House was packed to the doors last evening when the third annual contest of the Philo-Euzelian literary societies of the Mt. Pleasant High School was held. Each of the societies has been successful in winning the pitz, an ivory gavel, and much interest was centered on the competing societies. If gambling had been in order before the meeting was called, the odds would have favored the Philos and when the decision of the judges proclaimed the Euzeliens as victors, having secured four out of the five points, the audience seemed to be frantic, applauding and yelling, and by showing their appreciation of the decision in other ways.

The stage was especially decorated for the occasion and presented a very handsome appearance. Society poms and bunting composed of clays colors made up the decorations. The opposing societies sat facing each other, each occupying half of the gallery, and the bad deportment that marred many society contests recently held in this vicinity was absent from the program last evening. The society girls wore gowns with much split, but the students were not so carried away with enthusiasm that they engaged in banting with those across the gallery.

The stage was attractively decorated with profusions of palms, ferns and mistletoes arrangements of red and white bunting and large bouquets of roses. The young men wore boutonnieres of roses. The class was seated to form a semi-circle on the stage. To the left of the stage was seated Dr. G. W. Gallagher, who presented the diplomas. Rev. E. B. Burgess and W. S. Deffenbaugh, Superintendents of Schools, while to the right of the stage were seated Prof. Bruce Cobwell, Principal of the High School, and Dr. H. Davis of the California State Normal.

The stage was attractively decorated with profusions of palms, ferns and mistletoes arrangements of red and white bunting and large bouquets of roses.

The program opened with a selection, “Sousa's Swing,” by Kiferle's orchestra. The invocation by Rev. E. B. Burgess of the Trinity Lutheran Church followed. The next number was an oration “The Chambered Nautilus” by Miss Awilda Nicolay. In part she said, “There is nothing so interesting to man as his own evolution into society. He has risen step by step each year. The nation as an individual must have men of moral and mental growth. Each year our nation moves onward and upward.” Miss Nicolay's delivery was good and her subject was one of unusual interest.

The class prophecy by Marietta Ganter and Paul Dunn was a feature of the program, a new idea being introduced. Forty years was supposed to have elapsed since the graduation of the class of 1910 and a college was to be dedicated in Connellsville with Stanley P. Astor as Dean. All members of the class had made a great success in life, and were supposed to be holding very important positions in New York and other large cities. If the members of the class of 1910 have as great success in life as their classmates predicted for them they will be well paid for their time spent in securing an education.

A selection “The Bridal Rose,” by the orchestra took up the next period. The class donors, Misses Minnie Recco and Jean Morris presented each member of the class with some small gift which they thought would be a great help to their classmates in starting out on life's journey. The number afforded great amusement.

GIRL PROSECUTED WITH BETRAYER.

District Attorney Establishes Precedent in Lavina Porter's Case.

SHE DOESN'T BLAME WILLIAMS

Claims He Is not the Right Man But Squire Holds Both of Them For Court—Girl's Father in Jail Now For Assaulting Wife.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, June 1.—A precedent was established today when District Attorney D. W. Henderson insisted upon the prosecution of Lavina Porter, aged 20, along with the man charged with having betrayed her. The Porter girl denies that John Williams, alias Norman Smith, is the Smith responsible for her condition. Witnesses testified that Williams called on the girl while she was employed as a domestic in the home of Thomas Collier, the Uniontown jeweler.

It is said that the prosecutions were instituted by L. W. Porter, who more than a year ago prosecuted Williams for abduction. He lost this case and was later arrested for assaulting his wife, who subsequently burned to death in the Porter home.

The case was on before Squire Boyle more than two hours and a half this morning. The girl insisted that Williams is not the right man. The evidence seemed to warrant holding Williams on a charge of adultery, he being a married man. The girl was held on a separate charge.

Printers Here Ready to Tackle Morning Herald

The Connellsville Printers are ready to meet the Morning Herald aggression of near ball players just as soon as the two managers can get together and arrange matters. The Connellsville ball players have beaten the Union outfit no many times but getting monotonous, but if the Jeasonton aggregation wants another wallowing, the boys at this end are ready and willing to give satisfaction.

The locals will, however, impose certain conditions. If the game is played in Uniontown they object to walking out to Rivers or down Redstone creek to some back lot. They also object to Uniontown ringing in City League experts, as has been done before.

The position of the Prints is that each team must $25 to go to the winner of a three game series. Only players eligible to be those on the payroll of a daily newspaper in Connellsville or Uniontown. Manager Liebiger of the Printers will come across with the kate and has a jointless curve fountain pen to sign the articles, of agreement after their legality has been passed on by the Herald's legal sharp. The locals are willing to grant a concession—had Albrecht can have no strikes each time up.

ITALY'S WORLD'S FAIR

Everything Points to a Great Exposition at Rome and Turin in 1911.

In connection with the World's Fair, to be held at Rome and Turin to celebrate the 50th Anniversary of Italian Independence, in 1911, the government of Italy has contributed 2,000,000 lire (about $100,000) for the celebration of the proclamation of the 50th Anniversary of the City of Rome as the capital of Italy. It is also announced that the German Emperor William II will be present at the opening of the celebration in person, and that all the nations of the earth will send special representatives. Thousands of people will go from this country. Many people from Connellsville and vicinity are planning to make the trip, and the Foreign Department of the First National Bank will assist in the formation of parties, the securing of low steamer rates, and other details of the journey. Although the exposition does not take place until next year Mausser Anton Rueckov, of the First National, would be glad to have the names and addresses of anyone who contemplates going.

SOCIETY.

Entertained School Children. About 30 members of Grade No. 5 of the Second Ward School taught by Miss Lucie McGary were entertained Monday evening by Miss Josephine Munk at her home on West Fayette street. At the beginning of the school term the room was divided into two sides, the red and the blue, and a series of spelling contests were held during the term. The side having won the largest number of the words at the close was to be entertained by the losing side and as a result the blues were delightfully entertained. The blues won 29 of the series and the red 27. Various games were indulged in and about 10 o'clock a dutiful luncheon was served. The captain were Red, Eleanor Horner, and Blue, Albert Rottler.

Wedding Invitations Out.

Mr. and Mrs. Joshua H. Bullitt of Big Stone Gap, Va., have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mattie Bell, to Mr. John K. Taggart, and Miss Virginia Howard, to Mr. Ruth E. Taggart, to be solemnized Tuesday evening, June 14, at 6 o'clock in Christ Church at Big Stone Gap. A number of Connellsville persons received invitations.

The bridegroom's crew are sons of John K. Taggart deceased, and Mrs. Mary Enos Taggart, formerly of Connellsville, Mr. Taggart, their father, built the H. C. Frick works at Lelsenburg and was general manager of all the Lelsenburg operations. He was killed at Big Stone Gap by a blast. Mrs. Taggart is a sister of Mrs. Henry Kurtz of Connellsville.

For the Marriage of Miss Cartwright and A. B. Jackson.

Invitations were issued today for the marriage of Miss Mildred Louise Cartwright, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Cartwright of North Side, Pittsburgh, and Alexander Blakie Johnson, son of Dr. and Mrs. George B. Johnson, Franklin, Pa. Owing to the absence of the bride-elect's mother who is visiting her daughter in Portland, Ore., the wedding will be attended only by the immediate relatives of the young couple. Miss Cartwright will be attended by her sister, Miss Margarette Cartwright as maid of honor. Dr. William Johnson will serve as best man.

The ceremony will be performed by Rev. G. L. Cartwright, father of the bride-elect, assisted by Rev. R. B. Cathcart, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of West Newton. Miss Cartwright is well known in Connellsville and Scottsdale, the family having resided at Scottsdale for several years.

MISS WORTMAN TO WED.

Engagement to Edward P. Poole Has Been Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Wootton of Greensburg have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Nella Jane, to Edward Phillip Poole of Connellsville.

The engagement was announced at dinner given by Miss Wootton's honor of her house guests over Decoration Day, the happy news being conveyed to the guests by small notes rolled up and inserted in strawberries. Miss Wootton is well known in Connellsville where she formerly resided.

OHIOPILE.

OHIOPILE, May 31.—The Mill Run first annual baseball team, from Ohio, came to Uniontown on May 30, and lost their third straight game to the Ohiosville boys. Although the score went high on both sides, the game was very interesting throughout. W. W. Marquette, pitcher for Mill Run, hit a home run out of the box in the second inning. The Mill Run boys went after Jackson's delivery in the third and seventh innings for home runs. Altogether Jackson's part of Mill Run's score was marred through errors of the Ohiosville boys. The score by innings was as follows:

Ohiosville 1 7 0 3 0 0 0 0 — 12

Batting for Ohiosville Jackson and Lowary; Mill Run, W. Marquette and Marlin, and Slater and Brooks.

The second game was started in the afternoon, but one inning was not finished owing to there not being enough players.

Do You Realize What a Splendid Thing This Is for You?

Do you realize the importance of the statement that we carry but one pattern (copy) of every good furniture design that we sell? And that no two are alike? And that, therefore, you are sure to avoid buying furniture which looks like the furniture in other people's houses?

Let that sink into your mind a moment. Pause and think what it means to you. It means you may furnish your own home and give it your own character, your own individuality, your own taste—that you will have a home which is "different" from that of your friends.

Every woman has her own ideas of how to furnish a home. Only at the Aaron store can she find enough of a variety to carry out her ideas. And this is but one of the many, many ways in which we seek to help our customers. Come and learn the others. They will interest you.

COMMENCEMENT ORATORS AND IDEALS.

The Commencement season is in full swing and the future citizens of the republic are telling in stilted language and more or less distinctly glowing periods the same old stories in the same old way and in much the same old form; but they are now to callow kids and impressionable lasses, and they are saved from even negative condemnation by the fact that they point to higher things and by that much serve to uplift us all.

We must remember that, the ideal serves a useful purpose. Without it, we would still be grovelling in the dust, companions of the worms. With its inspiration we have risen to mental and moral and material heights undreamed of by our Adamsite ancestors.

The modern mind persistently seeks higher things. The real is never satisfactory to American inventive genius, which constantly seeks to unite it with the ideal, and the results have been truly wonderful within the last half century. The railroads, the telegraphs, the electric trolley lines, the telephone lines, the submarines, the wireless messages to and from mid-ocean vessels, the tunnels under rivers and oceans, and lastly the successful navigation of the air, show how much and how far the nimble wits of man has advanced from the real to the ideal.

The advance in other lines has not been so marked. It is a common comment that the world is getting wicked, and that unless it reforms suddenly and materially we are in danger of that doom foretold in Italy Writ. This is not true. The world is better, not worse, than it was; its government is more democratic and humane; its laws are more just and wise; its civilization is higher and its morals are better; its people are more intelligent, more prosperous, more comfortable and more happy than they have ever been in all the years since history began.

By all means, then, let the Commencement orators raise their eyes in admiration of the ideal. It is the privilege of youth and sturdy manhood to lift high their heads and with eagle glance look the sun in the face; in old age, the shoulders are bent, the head droops and contemplation is within.

Young man, hold up your head! But don't hold it too high. Don't hold so high that you cannot see where you are walking. If you do, you are in danger of getting some hard falls.

For the first time in history the Pennsylvania railroad officials are being held directly responsible for Connellsville's business men's and business interests. The Courier pointed out the wisdom of such a policy some time ago and we are much pleased to see the suggestion take native form. Connellsville, like the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the Pennsylvania railroad, needs Connellsville. The Get Together spirit is working.

The bad weather man puts a permanent damper on the Connellsville school picnic at Shady Grove.

The anniversary of the Johnstown flood brought back the same kind of weather.

The young got some of the damp out'n the hurt.

A West Virginia murderer confessed and was taken back to the scene of his crime and tried for murder and battery on the victim's anniversary of his victim. An open confession is sometimes good for the mind's peace as well as the soul's salvation.

It seems that the aviators do not always fly far.

Isn't our Ted the saucy thing?

The Mill Run ball game disclosed some unseemly bunting records.

Candidate George Buchanan Jeffries gave the Springfield Township Democracy a sample of what Congressional eloquence ought to be.

Fairchance hotels clinched hands with each frequent guest to support the establishment there of a hotel exchange.

It's all right for the Chamber of Commerce to consider Good Roads, but more important to Connellsville's commercial development are Good Railroads. Connellsville wants a good many railroads and wants them made to Connellsville in the matter of rates and service.

With all her boasted wealth and population and civilization, Fayette county harbors some very undesirable citizens, including house-breakers and horse-thieves, male and female.

Mount Pleasant finds typhoid in one of its springs. The spring is always a dangerous water supply.

The western shippers say they are being ruined by the railroads, but a local railroad knows that it has been "busted" by somebody else.

Some of the alleged coke now sent out of the Connellsville region is ridiculous. If you see it in The Weekly Courier you're it about right.

It's about time for an injunction against the weather works.

Champ Clark announces that he will be the next Speaker of the House. There's an old usage about counting one's chickens before they are hatched.

Braintstorms are on the September trial list of Fayette county's criminal court.

At an informal meeting of members of Camp Walter L. Brown, No. 4, Army of the Philippines, on Memorial Day, the following statement was authorized and directed to be published:

ATTENTION COMRADES!
Many of us having served along with him in the Island of Luzon during the Spanish-American War, and the Philippine Insurrection, heartily endorse him as our choice of the Republican aspirants for Congressional honors in this district.

He never failed to perform the duties of a soldier, always paying the strictest attention to the welfare of those whom were serving their country under his command, never asking his men to face a danger that he would not face himself.

He is a man of sterling qualities, eminently fit to represent our district as a Congressman, and we feel he would treat the interests of his constituents with the same fidelity that is characteristic of him in the jungles of Luzon.

Nomination of Fayette Candidate
Imperative in Twenty-Third District
Under Existing Political Conditions

Fayette, with her large Republican vote, should use it for the best interests of the entire district rather than for selfish purposes for a candidate who by the accident of birth or residence happens to be numbered among her citizens.

The above statement is quoted from the platform of Col. T. S. Crago, Republican candidate for Congress in the Twenty-third district, as published in the Unontown News Standard. It is the strongest argument that can be made in behalf of the candidacy of Charles E. Hood, the Republican candidate from Fayette. Conditions in the Twenty-third district this year make the nomination of a Fayette or Somerset county man imperative. Some exertion must be made.

The fight lies between Greene and Fayette. Nominate the Fayette county candidate, who is also widely known, popular and materially interested in the industrial welfare of Somerset county, and the possibility of Democratic victory in the polls next November is mightily lessened.

In all probability, the Democratic candidate for this district will be chosen Saturday from Fayette county. It is apparent that a Democratic candidate from Fayette will be much stronger at home against a Republican nominated from Greene county than he would be against an opponent from his own county. Col. Crago's acquaintances among the Republican voters and citizens at large in Fayette and Somerset counties is extremely limited. In both counties he would be of little help in the actual work of strengthening the party during the fall campaign. The Democratic candidate will confine his energies largely to a personal and thorough canvass of Fayette and Somerset counties, particularly to Fayette. No matter who the Republican candidate may be, Greene will go against him by more than 1,000 votes.

The Republicans of Fayette county are deeply concerned in the best interests of the entire Twenty-third district, and for that very reason popular expression in the county today favors the nomination of Charles E. Hood. Last fall Fayette went Democratic. It was a judicial year, of course, with the widely split political conditions and issues usually incident thereto prevailing, but with the Democrats have taken courage and hope from it, which coupled with the general political unrest throughout the country makes it wise and sensible policies to take no chances.

Ordinary political foresight will tell Republicans who look into the merits of the rival candidates in this Congressional campaign calmly and dispassionately that a candidate from Fayette will be stronger than a stranger from Greene. Love Fayette and the district is lost. It is good politics for the Republicans of this county to entrust the nomination for Congress to Col. Crago under the circumstances that exist.—Adv.

Harry G. Hormell of South Brownsville Assembly Candidate in the River District.

Harry G. Hormell is the only candidate for legislative honors who lives in the prosperous Monongahela river section, a portion of the Second Legislative District of Fayette county which is entitled to representation. Mr. Hormell seeks the Republican nomination and solicits your vote at next Saturday's primary.

This is the day of the young man in politics and Mr. Hormell is young. He is aggressive; clean cut. He is popular in his own community and during the canvass he has made, scores of friends have been added to his following. Mr. Hormell expects this large personal following to put a big figure in the vote, and it will.

In his home community, South Brownsville, Mr. Hormell is looked up to as one of the most promising young business men of that section. He is a member of the South Brownsville Town Council and in that capacity he has made good as a public servant. His work in the municipal organization has demonstrated his marked ability, something that will profit the district if he is nominated and elected to represent the county in the Legislature.

In the past it has been a custom and a wise one, to have all sections of the county represented in the Legisla-

Wm. H. Rankin, Candidate of the People,
In District No. 2 for the Assembly.

An active canvass is being made by William H. Rankin to secure the Republican nomination for the legislature in the Second District. Mr. Rankin is opposed to corrupt practices at the polls and wants to win on merit.

William H. Rankin is a railroad man. For 18 years he has been with the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and his record is clean. For 25 years he has been in Connellsville and has made a good citizen. He knows the needs of the people of his district as well as any man in the field.

A canvass of the district shows that he is rapidly gaining strength. He is SCOTTDALE, June 1.—The twenty-first anniversary of the Johnstown flood and the coldest day for the 31st of May ever known to the records of the Pittsburgh weather bureau called out the overcoats again yesterday. People were feeling gloomy in the cold deluge that lasted most of the day, and which turned to a sprinkle of snow at a couple of stages, while the prospect of a clearing sky at night gave the entertainments of a consuming frost that would lay low the newly sprouted corn, potatoes, beans and other vegetables. It was with a great deal of anxiety that a great many of the people surveyed the weather conditions this morning, but apparently no damage had been done, the sky remaining

Let Miss Griffith tell you about Mi-o-na, the greatest prescription for stomach troubles ever written:

For rents I have doctor'd for acute gastritis, but only received slight benefit, and had to be careful what I ate. But, thanks to Mi-o-na stomach tablets, I can now eat anything. Last Christmas, after partaking of a hearty turkey dinner, I was seized with an attack of acute indigestion, and the doctor worked over me for hours before I got relief. He paid me eight visits before I could say I was well enough to sit up. But since then I have taken Mi-o-na tablets, and I have not been troubled since. Before using Mi-o-na I had attacks about every month,—Mrs. Ed. Griffith, 1213 C St., Washington, D. C., July 5, 1909.

BATTLE BEGUN ON RAILROADS.

Government Secures Injunction Preventing Rate Increase.

WICKERSHAM TAKES ACTION

Increase in Freight Rates by Twenty-five Western Roads Would Have Become Effective Today Had Injunction Not Been Granted.

Hanibal, Mo., June 1.—Judge David P. Dyer of the United States circuit court for the Eastern district of Missouri has issued a temporary injunction restraining twenty-five western railroads from enforcing, effecting or making the advances in the interstate commerce commission tariff on the ground that said advances have been arrived at by the defendants therein by agreement with each other and without competition and in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

It is further stated in the restraining order "that unless such a restraining order be issued, said advances will become effective June 10, 1910, to the grave harm and injury to the people of the country."

Shippers Made Protest.
Washington, June 1.—Attorney General Wickersham instructed Edward B. Graveson, one of his assistants, who was in St. Louis, to apply to Judge David J. Dyer of the federal district for an injunction restraining twenty-five railroads in the middle west from putting into effect increases in freight rates ranging from 10 to 80 per cent.

The department of justice holds that the railroads in making these increases through the western trunk committee acted in concert and in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. The rates were to go into effect last night.

The activity of the attorney general's office is partly the result of the appeal which was made to him by a delegation of shippers from the middle west, supported by twenty or more influential members of congress from that section of the country. Before the shippers had appeared before him, though, the attorney general had been looking up the case and had sent his assistant to St. Louis to be ready for action.

The department of justice has also obtained an special counsel in the case Frederick N. Judson of St. Louis. Judson served in one or two important railroad cases under the Roddey administration.

The department in its proceedings against the western trunk line committee will assert the railroads have entered into a combination in violation of the anti-trust law.

The president went over the case with the attorney general and concurred with him in the opinion that an injunction ought to be begun at once.

It is expected the fight between the government and the railroads on this proposition will be bitter. The railroads of the country pretty generally have increases in rates under contemplation, if they have not already decided them, and in other cases the increases apparently have been the result of concerted action through committees of associations.

Opposition Has Strong Organization.
New York, June 1.—The opposition to the advance in railroad freight rates has reached the proportion of a regularly organized campaign, and it is likely that the stock market will find itself confronted with a new difficulty in the way of an advance.

Most of the opposition to the advance is in the middle west, although the Pacific coast has more to endure in the way of high freight rates than the Mississippi valley sections. The changes so far strongly favor the railroads, but it is possible they will have to modify their plans radically, as the seaports have a powerful organization. The interstate commerce commission have gone on record in favor of a gradual increase in freight rates.

SAVES COUNTRY $8,000,000

Supreme Court Decides Question of War Revenue Tax Repeal.

Washington, June 1.—By a bench divided 4 to 3 the supreme court held that congress did not intend that its repeal of the war revenue tax upon excises should affect inheritance passing a whole year before the repeal was enacted, as was held by some of the lower courts, and the government will therefore retain possession of the $8,000,000 of taxes it collected in these twelve months.

The majority opinion, delivered by Justice Burton, was supported by Justices White, Harlan and Holmes, and answered the question in the negative. Chief Justice Fuller and Justice Day and McKeenna dissented.

PUTS THE BLAME ON OTHERS

Bendermang and Gerspach, Sugar Trust Men, Make Defense.

New York, June 1.—It was a case of putting it up to somebody else when the defense began in the sugar trust trial before Judge Martin in the United States circuit court.

The defense of both Bendermang, the cashier of the Williamsburgh refinery, and Gerspach, its superintendent, is that Spitzer, the dock superintendent, had a department all to himself and that they had nothing to do with weighing.

KNOX SERVES NOTICE.

American Vessels in Nicaraguan Waters Must Be Left Alone.
Washington, June 1.—Secretary Knox has served notice on the Madrid gunboat Venus, which recently attempted to blockade the port of Bluefields, that further interference with American vessels will not be tolerated. These instructions were sent through Commander Gilmer, commanding the gunboat, Pacific and senior naval officer in Nicaraguan waters.

This action was taken after the department had been informed by Thomas P. Moffatt, American counsel at Bluefields, that the American owned sloop Adelaido had been seized and the American schooner Esmeralda was stopped and her cargo, owned by Americans, seized by Madrid supporters. Secretary Knox denied the right of either faction to interfere with American commerce.

There is some question as to whether or not these instructions are retroactive and contemplate the recovery of the vessels already taken by the Madrid faction. The belief here is that Commander Gilmer will require the return of the vessels and cargo.

Secretary Knox has also recognized the right of the Estrella faction to establish a new custom house to supersede that on the bluff, about four miles from Bluefields, which has been captured by Madrid's army. This report was recognized by the fact that Bluefields is still in the control of the Estrella faction.

EX-BANKER NABBED.

Customs Official Get Minneapolis Man at Smuggling.

New York, June 1.—Tom Donohoe, detective of the customs house, who is no respecter of persons, didn't know just what he would find when he bumped up against H. R. Lyon, dignified retired banker of Minneapolis, who had just stepped from the Hamburg-American liner America. When he stumbled against Lyon he threw one hand against the banker's hip pocket.

"What's in there?" he demanded, telling who he was. Lyon showed him his pocketbook. Detective Tom ran his hand in one of the compartments and pulled forth two necklaces. He said later one was worth $3,000 and another $800. Already, the customs official said, they had, revealed a brooch worth $100, three pearl shirt studs, a ring and a stelepin.

Then another examination of the seven trunks was made. When some of the flora was handed out a gold watch worth $150 was found.

The jewelry, worth $4,500, was confiscated, and Lyon was told to appear before United States Commissioner Ruth at Hoboken, where he was released on $25,000 bail.

A FORTUNE OFFERED

By Sun For Flight From St. Louis To New York.

New York, June 1.—Thirty thousand dollars was offered last night to the first aviator who flies in an airplane from New York city to St. Louis, or from St. Louis to New York. Mayor Gaynor announced the prize at the Hotel Astor, where Glenn H. Curtiss, who on Sunday wrote a new and wonderful chapter in the history of aviation by making a flight from Albany to Governors Island, was the guest of the New York World, whose $10,000 award he won. Mayor Gaynor paid.

Mr. Curtiss' memorable flight has demonstrated the possibilities of inter-city communication by airplane. To further encourage aviators, to inspire the brave and heroic ploughmen in air travel to still greater feats, the World and St. Louis Post-Dispatch now offer a prize of $10,000 for the first successful airplane flight between New York and St. Louis. The condition governing this flight will be announced shortly, after a conference with aeronautic experts.

FITZHERBERT THE WINNER

Great Race Horse First in Brooklyn Handicap.

New York, June 1.—Fitzherbert, the last race horse in America, won the Brooklyn handicap, 1½ miles, at Gravesend, running in the colors of S. C. Hilliard, and carrying 170 pounds. Fitzherbert made all the pace, beating the runner by a length and galloping the other starters into submission with such ease that more than 12,000 spectators were convinced of his greatness.

Fitzherbert was a great favorite, and his victory for that matter was conceded as far back as Feb. 1, when the weights were announced, for John E. Maden, who owned him at that time said: "They could put a ton on Fitzherbert's back and not prevent him from winning. Barring accidents he will capture both the Brooklyn and the Suburban."

He had been a fugitive from justice until a few days ago, when he came to Huntington and confided to a friend that he had killed a man. The

Preparation Sale of High Grade Pianos

Sale Intended to Put House in Order Preparatory for Last Six Months of Year.

Plans of big piano house for next six months start with general housecleaning sale of unusual merit.

This morning we will begin a sale which we will call a Preparation Sale.

This sale is held to prepare for or in preparation of the next six months of the year.

A big house like this plans its work ahead. It is not infrequent that we map out a part of our programme a year ahead.

Today our plans are matured for the remainder of the year.

Our pianos have been contracted for. Our plans for selling them have been determined upon. It now only remains to put our plans into execution.

Part of our plans are included in this preparation sale. Or rather, this Preparation Sale is the forerunner of a six months' plan.

It is just what the word preparation implies—to get ready.

We are getting ready.

We are going to put our house in order.

This includes just such reasonable things as you would do.

1. Selling off all odds and ends.

2. Disposing of all used and second hand stock.

3. Selling styles we do not intend buying again.

4. Selling all discontinued styles.

5. Selling pianos of all in used and second hand instruments we intend to discontinue.

6. As this is the end of the rental season, the rental stock that is now coming in will be disposed of.

7. Also, as the summer months are generally regarded as vacation months, and the piano business is not at its best until along about October, we will sell all highest grade styles at a very small margin of profit (if any) rather than keep our money tied up in these most expensive instruments during the entire summer. (For these expensive styles we will naturally want the cash or its equivalent.)

8. Odds and ends of music rolls will be cleaned out, in keeping with our fixed policy to supply an unexcelled music roll service, both through our circulating Library and Sales Department.

Instruments Included

In this Sale.

It would take a column to enumerate all of the instruments that are included in this sale. Suffice to say, that in new instruments many of the world's best makes are included, such as Chickering, Hardmans, Knabes, Esteys, etc., while old and discontinued styles.

Customers should keep in mind that the prices being set on these specially priced instruments are low—very low.

In many instances there is but a very little profit left—in many other instances none at all—so it is clear that this is a sale where the inducements to buy are not based upon unlimited time in which to make payments, but extraordinarily low prices for spot cash or very short terms.

On the expensive styles we will arrange for carrying accounts for a short time, say 12 to 18 months, charging 6 per cent for the time taken. On the second hand and used instruments we will within reason arrange terms to suit the convenience of our customers, by merely charging 6 per cent interest over and above the spot cash price.

Customers should keep in mind that the prices being set on these specially priced instruments are low—very low.

CHAPTER XII.
A LIVELY MORNING IN EXCHANGE BUILDINGS.

COKE and his sorry men became pirates during the early morning of Thursday, Sept. 2. On Monday, Sept. 6, David Verity entered his office in Exchange buildings, Liverpool, and ran a feverish glance through his letters to learn if any envelopes bearing the planetary devices of the chief cable companies had managed to hide themselves among the mass of correspondence. There was no cablegram, of course; Dickey Bulmer, who had become a walking nightmare to the unhappy shipowner, had said there wouldn't be such a twelve hours ago after wringing from Verity the astounding admission that Iris was on board the Andromeda. It was not because the vessel was over-due that David confessed; Bulmer, despite his sixty-eight years, was an acute man of business. Moreover, he was blessed with a retentive memory, and he treasured every word of the bogus messages from Iris concocted by her uncle.

The storm had burst unexpectedly. Bulmer came to dinner, ate and drank, and smoked in quiet mirth until Dickey's laboring muse conveyed his niece's latest "kind love" in good wishes" and then—

"Tell you what!" said Dickey, "there's another five thousand due tomorrow on the survivor's account."

"There is," said Verity, knowing that his guest and prospective partner alluded to the new steamer in course of construction on the Clyde.

"Well, it won't be paid. You are Iris' about Iris. You've been Iris' over since she disappeared from Bootle. Show me her letters on their envelopes, an I'll find the money. But of course you can't. They don't exist."

Then David set down the untrusted wine and told the truth: Not all—that was not to be drowned off. In the depths of his heart he feared Bulmer. The old man's repute for honesty was widespread. He would fling his dearest friend into prison for such a swindle as that arranged between Coke and the shipowner.

Dickey rose from the table. His movements showed his age that night. "I'll think it over, David," he said. "There's more in this than meets the eye."

So here was Verity with no shred of hope in his mind that his one-time enemy would raise a finger to save him from bankruptcy.

The office boy announced a visitor, evidently not the terrible Bulmer, since he said:

"Gentleman to see you, sir."

"Do I know?" growled the shipowner.

"Gentleman from the newspaper."

A quiet mannered, young man appeared.

"May I ask if you have received any private news of the Andromeda?" he began.

David cracked round in his chair. "Is she lost?" he said in a strangely subdued tone.

"I fear she is. But there is much more than an ordinary shipwreck at issue. Several telegrams of the gravest import have reached us this morning. Perhaps before I ask you any questions you ought to read them. They are in type already, and I have brought you the proofs. Here is the first."

David took from the interviewer's outstretched hand a long strip of white paper. For an appreciable time his searching brain refused to comprehend the curiously black letters, for this is what he read:

REVOLUTION IN BRAZIL SERIOUS POSITION.

STARTLING ESCAPE OF A BRITISH SHIP.

Rio de Janeiro, Sept. 6.—A situation of exceptional gravity has developed on the Andes, the mountains of Brazil, whence it is said, ex-President do Silva recently attempted to escape. A battleship and two cruisers have been dispatched thither under forced march. No word has yet been received from the Andes during the past week, and the authorities especially refuse any information as to earlier events, save hints at some extraordinary developments synchronous with the appearance of the island of a British steamer known as the Andromeda.

Later—Dr. Sylvie landed last night at the small port of Macae, in the province of Rio de Janeiro, a hundred miles south of Pernambuco. It is currently reported that Fernando Noronha was captured by a band of Indians, who have been waiting for his return. Today he issued a proclamation, and his partisans have seized some portion of the railway. Exultation here is at fever heat.

Verity glared at the journalist. He laughed almost hysterically.

"The Andromeda!" he gasped. "We're! What silly rot!"

The shipowner grasped another printed slip. This time he was able to read more lucidly:

Pernambuco, Sept. 4.—Public interest in the abortive attempt to kidnap Dona Sophia, whose president was waiting rapidly when it was fanned into fresh activity by news that that he was stunned. But Dickey was not induced to spare him on that account.

"Answer me, you scoundrel!" he shouted. "You are still enough when it suits your purpose. Were you in this? Is this the reason, you didn't tell me Iris was on board till I forced the truth out of you last night? Now let's have it! Not one of your dirty made-up tales. You took me to shove the Andromeda into a rat trap of this sort!"

Dickey seemed to be laboring for breath.

"A'arf a'mot. No need to yell at me like that!" he protested.

He fumbled with the lock of a corner cupboard, opened it and drew forth a decanter and some glasses.

"Ah," he said, smacking his lips with some of the old time relish, "that puts new life into me. The story is all moonshine on the face of it."

"I think otherwise, Mr. Verity, and Mr. Bulmer, I take it, agree with me," said the reporter.

"What?" blared Dickey, into whose mind had darted a notion that dizzied him by its daring. "D'ye mean to insinuate that I left my ship to this—er—Dom Wot's-is-name? D'ye sit there an' think that I'd allow a botch like my Iris to take a trip that might end in her being blown to bits?" It's croak, that's what it is, real croak."

"The lady referred to was Alice Iris Yorke, then?"

"'Oo she? I've on'y one niece. My trouble is that she's wild without my permission, in a way of speakin'. Ere you'd better 'ave the fax. She was engaged to my friend, Mr. Bulmer, but, behin' a slip of a girl an' fond o' romancin', she just purp herself aboard the Andromeda without sayin' 'with your leave' or 'by your leave!' She wrote me a letter, which sort of explains the affair. D'ye want to see it?"

"No," said Bulmer.

"Look'ere, Dickey," went on Dickey, "this dashed fairy tale won't hold water. You know Coke. Is 'e the kind o' man to go bumpt' round like a stage 'ero an' hollering 'Yulin Jacks' as the ship sinks? I ax you, is 'e? It's nonesense—stuff an' nonsense. An' if the Andromeda was swamped at Fernando Noronha, 'oo were the freebooters that collared the island an' did this 'ere Do Sylvie get to Macao? Are you listenin'?"

"Yes," said Bulmer, turning at last and devouring Verity with his deep set eyes.

"Well, what d'ye think of it?"

"Did you send the ship to Fernando Noronha?"

It is needless to place on record the form of David's denial. It was forcible and served its purpose. That should suffice.

"If Iris is alive, the partnership ends on," said Bulmer. "If she's dead it doesn't."

"YOU INTERFERE BLACKGUARD, HAVE YOU BEEN 'THUM' IN BOARDED."

Bouy Bay, a point significantly far removed from the regular track of trading vessels, might be noted that a terrible accident has been suffered there. The whole matter must be strictly inquired into, and one of his majesty's ships stationed in the south Atlantic should visit the island at the earliest date possible. Delayed in transmission.

Something buzzed inside Verity's head and killed all sense of actuality. He gazed at the reporter unflinchingly, though thought itself refused to act. "Is that the lot?" he inquired mechanically.

"Nandy all, at present. Here, however, is a short telegram from Paris which is of minor interest."

And Verity read again:

Paris, Sept. 6.

The members of Dom Goncalo de Sylva's family, seen early this morning at the Hotel Continental, deny that any lady connected with the cause of Brazilian independence took part in the attempted rescue of the ex-president. They are quite annoyed by the unfounded report and hold strongly to the opinion that the revolution would now have been a full accomplishment if the Andros-Mola and thus led to that vessel's detention at Bahia.

The lady, Iris Yorkel, last night at the small port of Macae, in the province of Rio de Janeiro, a hundred miles south of Pernambuco. It is currently reported that Fernando Noronha was captured by a band of Indians, who have been waiting for his return. Today he issued a proclamation, and his partisans have seized some portion of the railway. Exultation here is at fever heat.

Verity glared at the journalist. He laughed almost hysterically.

"The Andromeda!" he gasped. "We're! What silly rot!"

The shipowner grasped another printed slip. This time he was able to read more lucidly:

Tired Worn-out Dishes

Dishes and pots and pans get tired and worn out—when they get dirty, greasy and sticky. They need a thorough cleansing—to put new life into them. Soap will not cleanse them below the surface, and besides leaves them with a "soapy" smell that is anything but appetizing.

Gold Dust is the real doctor for tired dishes. Gold Dust makes dish-water that digs—gets under the surface and searches out every hidden particle of dirt and germ that ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust not only cleanses—it sterilizes.

Besides, Gold Dust will cut your dish-washing time right in two, and give you that much more leisure.

Do not use Soap, Naphtha, Borax, Soda, Ammonia or Kerosene with Gold Dust. Gold Dust has all desirable cleansing qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form. The Gold Dust Twins need no outside help.

For CONGLENTON and KENDRICH BRANCHES—8:45 A. M., week days, 12:

SEVENTEEN SENIORS GRADUATED FROM THE LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL.

(Continued from First Page.) Promised Land," by Fred Hotzol was an important number. After dwelling upon the Western lands and the number of persons who left annually for the west the speaker thanked the Board of Education for the excellent opportunities afforded them in securing an education and closed with a brief address to his classmates. A medley, "Peggy From Paris," by the orchestra followed.

Prof. Cobrough then introduced Prof. H. D. Davis of the California State Normal, who delivered the class address. Dr. Davis is a prominent educator and is well known throughout Western Pennsylvania. His subject, "Quest of Thought," was an appropriate one and was interesting from the beginning to the close. He said nothing afforded him greater pleasure than to address a class of young graduates who were about to look out afresh into the future. He spoke of the many mysteries that would confront them and urged them to think for themselves no matter how difficult it would be. Dr. Davis is a very eloquent speaker and his address last evening should leave a lasting impression upon the class as well as the large audience. The members of the faculty were fortunate in securing Dr. Davis to deliver the address to the class.

A selection, "Dawn of Love," by the orchestra followed after which Dr. G. W. Galigher gave an address and closed with presenting the diplomas to the class. His address was as follows:

"I rise not to waste your valuable time in idle words of praise relative to what these young folks have attained. Your presence emphasizes that fact more than any eulogy I could pronounce upon them; yet, a just recognition and a proper appreciation of their crowning effort. In the High School course, should be made; and to this end I beg your indulgence for a few minutes."

"But little word merit, though composed of but five letters, has a significant and a depth of meaning in that makes it applicable to all lines of labor, whether a program is made and noted. When the tradesman has successfully accomplished his term of apprenticeship, merit stamps upon his brow the insignia of master workman."

"When the aspirant for professional honors has completed the studies prescribed in some particular curriculum, merit centers upon him the applied title of his trade."

"In the business world, merit is ever keen to recognize and be recognized for any and all praiseworthy and rewarded accordingly. So in all avenues of the world's work, wherever progress is noted and worth is appreciated, merit is the honor badge, which distinguishes the truth from the false, the good from the bad, the worthy from the unworthy and the successful from the unsuccessful."

"These young folks are worthy and successful and merit the special recognition accorded them this evening. They have completed all the work prescribed for them. They have utilized every opportunity placed within their reach. They have attested unto the standard of education established in our schools. What more could they do? What more could you, their guardians, ask of them? Would you have your children better educated?" Would you see them rise to higher positions in life?" Then it is up to you to make those things possible of attainment by providing your selected children with greater opportunities for acquiring more knowledge.

"Advance the standard of education in your schools to a higher plane than you may reasonably require and expect more from your children along educational lines. Elevate the stand and provide the proper facilities and I will go the full security for the performance of the work."

"Is it not a fact that we spend annually more for unnecessary amusements and harmful luxuries than we do for public education?" Not that I would banish all innocent amusements nor den myself of all luxuries; but I would defer their consideration until the needful things of life were properly provided for; and surely more public education alone all lies is a crying need of the hour."

"Let me impress your mind that there is no other business in which you can invest your money that will produce greater gain. It has been correctly calculated that every dollar invested in public education yields 200% profit, and figures do not lie, when multiplied by a truth seeking mind."

"As guardians of public education do not cultivate or foster false economy in the expenditures of money for educational purposes; and yet, spend it guardedly that you may get the most out of the proper amount invested. Do not be stingy on behalf of your posterity; but reach down deep into the financial corner of your pocket and support public education with a will and a zest which will cause the present and future generations to rise up and call you blessed."

"It is not only your privilege, but it is your bounded duty to give of your time, your ability and your earthly means, that the school system of our fair city may advance to meet the needs of each succeeding generation."

"Do you appreciate your privileges? Do you recognize your duty?" Are you willing to do it? I believe you are and when this labor of love is finished, you will have acquitted yourselves of this guardianship in a praiseworthy manner."

"Class of 1910, the Board of Education extends to you its most hearty congratulations for improving your opportunities and for accomplishing every requirement exacted of you. You have done the work, you have passed the final ordeal, and tonight you stand an honor to your friends and reflect due credit upon our public school system."

"Representing that the Board in its wisdom, I have the unusual pleasure of presenting each one of you a diploma in testimony of your merit. The commercial value of these diplomas can be calculated in dollars and cents; but the representative value can be estimated only in your intellectual proficiency."

"Accept them and prize them, not for their intrinsic value, but for their real worth and as a seal of your graduation from the Connellsville High School."

"As you accept them, 'tis my hands, remember that 'knowledge is power,' that its force is irresistible; that education is the light of the world; it dispels the clouds of ignorance and drives away the gloom of superstition. It illuminates the way to civilization and liberal government. It suppresses tyranny and oppression, and establishes liberty."

"Public education is the bulwark of the public defense, and every school house is a fortification against the common enemy. Wisdom is preferred above all things. It is more precious than fine gold and more to be desired than the Monarch's crown."

"Blieves may steal the gold; time and events may shatter the crown, but death itself cannot rob you of knowledge. Wisdom though a product of time is an element of eternity. My young friends, let this elemental knowledge now required be but an incentive to start you upon the road to higher things."

"The instructors to whom you now bid adieu will ever watch you in your onward progress and uphold every step. As your future achievements will reflect credit upon their past efforts; I trust that they shall be compensated with the assurance that their labors were not spent in vain. The Board of Education hopes that success may be inevitably stamped upon every home to whom a diploma has been given."

"Just a word to under-graduates: Let the exercises of this evening be an inspiration to you. Never resolve that with renewed energy you will press forward toward the goal of graduation. Let no motive therefore cause you to waver from your purpose, relax your diligence or regard your progress; but press with vigor, determined to win the prize and to meet your friends next year and the next year and the following and every year until the voice of ignorance is heard no more in our midst."

"It is gratifying to the Board of Education to know that, throughout the entire year, the newspapers of our city gave their cordial support to every worthy effort made by the Board towards the betterment of our schools. The school board appreciates your support and feels grateful for all assistance rendered. You too constitute an educational institution, and our mutual cooperation can have no other effect upon the schools than to elevate and improve our educational system. I thank you."

"CASE IS SETTLED." Louis Sapolsky and Abe Cohen Out of Cow Case Now.

The prosecution against Louis Sapolsky and Abe Cohen brought by Michael Hostefel over a cow trade has been settled and a nolle pross entered. The Grand Jury found a true bill against both men on a charge of fraud. In an exchange of cows it is alleged that Sapolsky and Cohen sold a "stripped" cow which they represented to be fresh. The man settled by paying for one of the two cows Hostefel gave in exchange for the one he got, and all the costs in the case. Attorney F. D. Munroe arranged the settlement for Hostefel.
